

TEXAS BULLION DEPOSITORY

A Preview of Issues & Suggestions

Presented October 2016

By Charles Savoie

There has been a big buzz and rightly so in recent months about the passing of Texas House Bill #483, signed in summer 2015 by Governor Greg Abbott, to create a precious metals based bank sponsored by the State of Texas. This presentation will be brief and interested parties are strongly urged to carefully read the detailed sequel to be released in one week. We will present some issues and suggestions here in a very condensed manner; a full grasp can only be had by reading the detailed sequel. “Skimming over” is not reading! Ask any attorney if he got his law degree that way! We will encourage reading the very important sequel by not providing any documentation such as hyperlinks here---those you will find in profusion in the impending sequel or Master Presentation with 60 images! Minor changes will be made after we know who took the White House, and God forbid that gun grabbing chicken headed vaccine pusher moves in with her “HELL 666” agenda!

I have no goal to talk the Bullion Depository down; rather, to cull the dross out of the situation! Who wants roaches in the cornmeal? If you thought everything was flashing green lights, I regret to describe otherwise. There is work to be done and all interested Texans and metals longs elsewhere should get busy once informed of the deplorable hitches in this development.

Point number One is that the Texas gold stored at HSBC Bank in New York is gold specific to the University of Texas Investment Management Company (UTIMCO) and it isn't gold owned by any general State fund that could be used for miscellaneous purposes. HSBC Bank has the dirtiest history of any bank in the world, beginning with opium for silver in China. Naturally a British bank would be the most horrible considering their "God is an Englishman" attitude.

Point number Two is that UTIMCO management has gone on record with the corrupt stance that they insist this gold hoard remain linked to the COMEX system! We also notice that UTIMCO isn't obligated to place this gold in the new State

Depository! There are rattlesnakes under the covers, so to speak.

Point number Three is that Texas HR #483 bans any precious metals, especially gold, that enter the Bullion Depository, from being used in any way with swaps, leasing, derivatives and so on which is what we want to see; yet that is the exact chicanery the COMEX gold system deals in; and therefore, I submit that the UTIMCO management has set itself at defiance against the intent of the Texas State Legislature and the Governor of Texas! Not only defiance, but insubordination! When in 1833 President Jackson ordered Treasury Secretary Louis McLane to withdraw Federal funds from the second United States Bank, McLane refused Jackson's lawful order and was removed from his post. His replacement William Duane committed the same mutinous affront against Jackson and was also removed. Finally after appointing Roger Taney to Treasury Secretary, Taney withdrew Federal funds from the British sponsored central bank, calling it a "monster!" Texas needs officials in the State capitol who won't hesitate to clean out the stables, so to speak. British allied financial forces are seeking to wreck the intent of the Texas Bullion Depository just as they came here in 1872 to slam us with the "Crime of '73."

Point Number Four is therefore that any and all UTIMCO officials who insist this gold remain connected to COMEX must be ousted from their post, including as regents or trustees of the University of Texas System! They are morally and ethically unfit! Their loyalty is not to Texas, but to globalism and funny money! People like this are obstructing the life's purposes of everyone long precious metals, and of everyone who desires to see sound money restored. They are defrauding mining shareholders of their true net worth, and preventing mining companies from providing full employment in their business! There is no reasonable conclusion but that UTIMCO management intends the gold to be plundered, ransacked and looted for more gold price suppression, to prop up the trash the bastardized Federal Reserve spits out! They'll say the gold is still there when they're waiting for more gold to come in from mining to replace it! Meantime they'll show photos of other gold ingots without admitting there are multiple claims on them in a sickening hyperleveraged daisy chain of torturously convoluted derivatives spanning all hemispheres in an blasphemous banking network of boundless subversion.

Point Number Five is that several UTIMCO board members can be shown definitely to have a globalist, elitist, internationalist, interventionist, one-worlder, warmonger outlook; and that one of them, while believing in firearm protection for himself, very sinfully and heartlessly opposes the same protection for some 231,000 students in the University of Texas System! Dismal characteristics such as this constitute additional basis for their prompt ouster! There are bad critters in the woodwork! On August 1, 2016, a new Texas law, passed by the State Legislature and signed by the Governor, allows permit holders including students, to carry firearms on the University of Texas at Austin campus. The chancellor of this University, who is also a UTIMCO director, opposes this law and in so doing has continued his defiance against the lawful government of the State! This is a duplicitous man with military awards for expertise in pistols and rifles! All things are allowed for elitists; common folks must be severely restricted!

Point Number Six regards self serving companies almost certainly with ulterior motives offering to store this UTIMCO gold in vaults far outside of Texas, be it New York, Delaware, London, Singapore, Hong Kong or elsewhere; that this is a brash attempt to nullify the basic goal of the legislation, that gold and other precious metals be stored within the borders of the great State of Texas! These tainted interests clamoring to “help” Texas store the gold in the end represent no improvement over the current shady and boundlessly dubious HSBC storage, and constitute an arrogant view that Texas lacks the proper “brain trust” to store precious metals; that the State is incompetent in such business; this we find outrageously insulting and deviously self-serving! Additionally, there are unanswered questions as to the trustworthiness of at least one of these major concerns! Another has connections historically to major scale United States gold manipulation over a century ago!

Point Number Seven regards private firms offering to perform construction on some physical site in Texas. The identities of these interests haven’t been made sufficiently public; and if any be connected to New York interests or similar interests elsewhere, a bubonic plague rat should definitely be smelled!

Point Number Eight is that the legislation’s author himself has stated that an “outside firm” would be selected to manage the Bullion Depository! Again this starts alarm bells ringing and caution sirens blaring like an air raid! Will hopeful folks and trusting souls be financially strafed once more? This concept doesn't match well with the idea that the State Comptroller's Office would have purview over the Depository! He also stated that we'll never get rid of the Federal Reserve! That view is out of touch with the spirit of the legislation to create a State Bullion Depository.

Point Number Nine is the inadequate level of legal protection in the State of Texas regarding private property rights in general. The environment in which the Texas Bullion Depository is being born is a polluted environment in that sense! As a specific, while the bill bars the Federal government from seizing or nationalizing any and all precious metals within the new Depository, the language of the bill states "other than by an authority of this state," not once but twice! What's the use of protection for citizens and depositors against the DC government if there is not the same protection against State government seizure? Nowhere in the bill does it spell out that to have their metal seized, a person or business must first be convicted by a jury of a felony!

Point Number Ten has to do with media jabs against the idea of Texas having a gold bank based on Constitutional money, and the same can be said of certain irksome and pesky university professors who've derided the idea like ripped off con men because their sponsors are from anti-gold forces. A hack economist in D.C. moaned that moving the gold to Texas would serve no useful purpose. Among his bosses I will show include the head of HSBC, which is still storing the gold and clearly wants no part of returning it; several Ex chairmen of the Federal Reserve System; and Hillary backer Lynn Forester De Rothschild! In 2000 Rothschild and his wife spent a night in the Bill Clinton White House. A Hillary presidency would work against every right we hold dear. I offer two jabs against her (lampoon must sometimes be allowed) first from the Beach Boys adapted from “Good Vibrations” and second Kenny Rogers “Ruby Don’t Take Your Love to Town”---

“I hate those grody clothes she wears---
And the way the fan blows the sweat through her hair!”

“She’s puking now cause I just heard the dropping of the filth!”

Point Number Eleven features multiple suggestions for Texas and elsewhere which, if enacted, will enhance the use of gold and silver as money and also the security of private property rights thereof. I’ve incorporated a suggestion into the report that the State of Texas confiscate any and all bank buildings and real estate of any megabanks forcing depositors to “bail them in,” meaning, to involuntarily receive likely valueless stock in exchange for being denied lawful demand deposits! The State Legislature should also declare canceled, in such bail-in event, all credit card and mortgage debt owed by Texas residents to all such megabanks involved in any such bail-in.

Point Number Twelve has to do with the electrified satire by which I characterize the questionable personalities described in the Master Document to be released one week from today. Don't miss out; there will be many LOL moments and even ROFL moments! Examples---

A) Even a flea bitten range bum with Red Man chewing tobacco in his hip pocket from the 350,000 acre 6666 Ranch in the Panhandle in West Texas could see the attempted fraud of the forces working to influence the Texas Bullion Depository. Even his horse on loco weed could see it! This chuck wagon has to be cleaned up! No Tony Lama brand engraved West Texas boots for undesirables!

B) The Houston Press, January 23, 2015, in a slimy editorial, “Five Craziest Bills Already Filed With the Texas Legislature,” a cheap hack writer named Dianna Wray (sick as a dog passing peach pits) intimated that if Texas builds a gold bank, the Federal government will invade Texas a second time; she also made impudent buzzing sounds against the right to keep and bear arms. Does she own any gold jewelry? She should store it with a stolen goods fence! Even Pravda, the great Russian news agency, spoke better of the Texas bill than this ersatz Texas paper and their pitiful blowhard columnist who doesn't have the sense of a fruitcake from the famous Collin Street Bakery in Corsicana.

Words from William Shakespeare apply to the shady financial characters working 24/7 to redirect the intent for which the Texas Bullion Depository Act was signed into law---

"Tis now the witching time of night and hell itself breathes out contagion to this world."

I can imagine former Sweetwater, Texas resident Blackjack Mulligan, released from the New York Jets for being too rough, cracking a bullwhip in outrage over the insidious efforts to neutralize the intended effects of the Bullion Depository---

Please ask your favorite metals and freedom sites to link or repost this intro and the Master Document to follow. No editing or deleting please. Readers will be getting a free E-book about 10 times longer than this document; you can set time aside for several nights if you don't want to read it straight through. This isn't research only, but an action plan for assailing your legislators to do the right thing regardless of which State you reside in because there are suggestions for all states---including Mexican states and Canadian provinces.
